

- made up at some other stage within the same leave year or deducted from the annual leave entitlement for that year.
- If the work pattern of the employee working part-time does not necessitate them reducing all of their entitlement for bank holidays, then they can use any